

Our privacy policy

A reminder to share our privacy policy
with your clients

Protecting your clients' personal information is extremely important to us at Legal & General and the way we collect, use, store and share information matters.

Whether you are getting a quote or making a full application on behalf of your client, you are required to share a copy of our privacy policy with your client as part of our Terms of Business.

By sharing your privacy policy and our privacy policy, your client will be fully informed about how we both collect and process their personal information. This ensures compliance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

Find out more